DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1, 3-7 and 9-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hausmann US 5,252,649.

Hausmann shows rubber compositions for tire tread members, see abstract. This patent further describes plasticizer constituents as being fatty acid triglyceride compounds which are >50% oleic acid triesters, see column 2, line 63 through column 3, line 65. The extraction of the oleic acid triesters from vegetable and/or sunflower oil is discussed in the abstract as well as at column 3, line 52+. The diene elastomer is suggested at column 3, lines 38. The claimed mass fraction is suggested at column 3, line 55+.

The main difference between the claimed invention and the prior art is claimed minimum mass fraction of 60% is not expressly stated or exemplified. This limitation is obvious from the disclosure of the fatty acid triglyceride residues is greater than 50% oleic acid. This limitation is suggested by the overlap in scope of the amounts. As such, the claims are rendered prima facie obvious.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 11/30/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

5. Applicants argue that the claims are now limited to compositions where the glycerol fatty acid triester compound (rapeseed oil) is present in an amount from 10 to 40 phr. Applicants allege that the Hausmann disclosure teaches away from the claimed invention. Applicant points out that the Hausmann patent identifies 5phr as the preferred amount of glycerol triester compound. This is not persuasive. Applicants attention is directed o column 3 lines 62+ where the amount of rapeseed oil is disclosed as being from 2 to 35 parts by weight. Further, example 4 uses 15 parts by weight of the rapeseed oil. This falls within the scope of the claims. The lower amount preferred by the art does not render the claims patentably. Case law has well established that a mentioned disadvantage does not properly constitute grounds for patentability.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 1713
